KDZ183 92ter 0.5 hours	2. Sulejman CRNČALO	Previously testified before the Tribunal: Krajišnik case: 2 and 3 September 2004 Sulejman Crnčalo has previously testified about events in the municipality of Pale in 1991 and the first half of 1992. “The witness was a Muslim factory worker who lived in Pale from 1978 until the time he was expelled on 2 July 1992. He describes the persecution of Muslims in Pale from 1991 until July 1992, when almost all the remaining Muslims were transferred out of the municipality, and the participation of the Bosnian Serb forces (including, in particular, the police, acting in cooperation with paramilitary units) in this campaign...” (Krajišnik case, 2 Sept. 2004, transcript page 5291) From the Prosecution submission in the Karadžić case, 2 November 2009: “... The Witness is a crime-base witness from Pale municipality, who was expelled from Pale to Sarajevo in July 1992, and lived in Sarajevo with his wife and children until the end of the siege. His wife was killed in the Markale market shelling of 28 August 1995 (Incident G.19). He also refers to the destruction of the three mosques referred to in D.14, and detention of Muslim men at the detention facilities C19.1 and C19.2...” For more information, please see the “Prosecution notification of admission of written evidence pursuant to Rule 92ter with Appendix A, Witness Sulejman Crnčalo” of 2 November 2009 (Document available from ICTY Court Records).

¹ As per latest prosecution filing. Please note that this order is subject to change due to unforeseen circumstances.

² Rule 92ter was adopted in September 2006 to increase the ability of the Trial Chambers to consider written statements and transcripts of witnesses in lieu of oral testimony where that evidence goes to the acts and conducts of an accused and to enhance the efficiency in trial proceedings. Rule 92ter is designed to facilitate the admission of evidence without going through an examination-in-chief.

³ Please note that this is the time the Prosecution estimates it will need for the witness. This time estimate does not include cross-examination by the accused or possible questions by the Judges. The time allocated for these will be decided by the Trial Chamber.
